IOWA'S STATE PARKS and PRESERVES Welcome You

STATE CONSERVATION COMMISSION
DES MOINES

WELCOME . . . Iowa is less than a century old. A young state that leads the nation in farming, literacy, and per capita wealth. Iowa, comprised of twenty-five percent of the most valuable farm land in the nation nevertheless has acquired for your public estate over 18,500 acres for parks and preserves. These areas are rich in Iowa's history, scenic grandeur of rocky canyons, streams and forests, and offer sport and recreation to 2,400,000 visitors each year. State parks and reserves are not confined to any one section but are scattered throughout the state. Usually there are several areas within a two hours drive of your home. Enjoyable access to the parks is possible during all seasons of the year over Iowa's fine highway system. The primary purpose of having your public estate is to preserve the unusual and unique or historic spots of the state for all time, in a manner to permit maximum enjoyment and recreation by the public. These parks are the meeting place of the farmer, the playground of the urban dweller, the laboratory of the student and a resting place for the weary. A cordial invitation is extended to you.

You are especially welcome.

YOUR PUBLIC ESTATE . . . consists of 18,500 acres of the finest scenery to be found in the Middle-west, 41,000 acres of beautiful natural lakes, and 800 miles of publicly owned rivers, all for your pleasure and study. Within this 18,500 acre estate are picnic grounds and swimming beaches with ample parking areas, made accessible by 90 miles of roads, 47 major vehicular bridges, and the only highway tunnel within the state, the last being located at Pammel State Park. Boneyard Hollow, the Devil's Staircase, The Backbone, The Picture Rocks, the Ice Caves, and many other beautiful works of nature may be seen only by using the 100 miles of foot trails. 18 lodges, which may be reserved for a small fee, and 42 open picnic shelters are available for picnic groups and the casual visitors at all times. For cool and safe bathing there are 12 supervised beaches and bath houses. Your family may spend several delightful weeks in any of the 27 cabins within the parks. Your club or organization may utilize the group camps. 28 fulltime conservation officers assigned as park custodians, assisted by 21 part-time caretakers, represent your host, the Iowa Conservation Commission.

THE IOWA STATE PARKS and Preserves do not have open and closed seasons. The Conservation Commission believes that your parks should be open to the public at all times, and opportunities have been provided for sport, recreation, and relaxation throughout the year. Each period offers new views, new activities, and new enjoyment. The floral progression begins with the appearance of the snow trillium and continues until late fall when the witch-hazel blooms. Picnicking is extremely enjoyable in April and May. Swimming and the other aquatic sports are ushered in by the month of June. During the hot months of July and August the cool, shady glades and moist glens offer protection from excessive heat. September brings the beautiful fall season with the asters and the brilliant sumac. October and November present the golden panorama of autumn coloring, and such activities as hiking, riding, and wiener roasts. During the winter months, skiing, tobogganing, and skating are the chief attractions. Throughout the year lodges, warm in the winter, cool and inviting in the summer, are available for group meetings and parties.

WILD FLOWERS in vast quantities are to be found in all the State Parks and Preserves. The Conservation Commission is the first conservation organization in the country to make a comprehensive study of the native habitat of the wild flowers. A long time program for the preservation of existing flowers and the restoration of those native to Iowa has been inaugurated. A conservative estimate of the value of the flowers in Wild Cat Den alone amounts to over $50,000. In the Ledges, near the east entrance, is a hillside seven or eight acres in extent solidly covered with hepaticas during April. Over 350 varieties of wild flowers may be found in Lacey Keosauqua. The entire area of Pilot Knob is brilliant during the middle of May with anemonellas, bloodroot, trilliums, merrybells, and violets. From April until June a wonderful display of thousands of wild flowers is to be found at Fort Defiance. Prairie and desert flowers may be seen in Waubonsie and Stone Parks on the loess bluffs of western Iowa. The beauties of nature are not found around the picnic areas, but must be discovered in secluded glens and along quiet trails. Here is inviting inducement for long, refreshing walks.

Hunting and Fishing licenses may be procured at county recorder's offices, sporting goods houses, and resorts. Further information as to open and closed seasons may be obtained from the State Conservation Commission, Des Moines.

IOWA STATE PARKS and Preserves with their forts, their hollows and bridges, caves and dens, mills and cabins, defy rigid classification. Some are primarily historical, some are memorial, and many are of physiographical importance. Old Fort Atkinson and Fort Defiance are clearly historical in character. Lewis and Clark, Dolliver, Lake MacBride, Heery Woods, and Stone Park have human associations which well justify their being known as memorial parks, whereas Ahquabi, Waubonsie, and Lake of Three Fires were so named because of Indian lore associated with them. Echo Valley, Wild Cat Den, Maquoketa Caves, Backbone, Ledges, and White Pine Hollow definitely indicate physical features.

All parks recommended in the list for picnicking are equipped with tables, stoves, pure water, and toilets. Picnic grounds are usually located in shaded, cool sections of the park, offering exceptional vistas over the surrounding terrain. In most parks wood is provided near the stove, but, in a few instances, a small charge is made for an adequate bundle of wood which may be obtained from the custodian.

Winter Sports have not been neglected within the parks. Skating is provided wherever possible; ski runs are enjoyed in several parks; and at Pine Lake a constructed toboggan slide was very popular in the winter of 1936. Warm shelters are conveniently situated.

Camping is permitted in certain parks for a fee of 50c per night or $2.50 a week per unit. Campers provide their own tents and outfits. A time limit of two weeks is maintained, and in some parks only overnight camping is permitted. For further information, see park list.

Swimming is provided at 12 supervised beaches, and the State Conservation Commission is proud to announce that no drownings have ever occurred at any of the supervised state park beaches. The small fee charged defrays the cost of life guards, cleaning the beach, and keeping the dressing rooms sanitary. Suits and towels may be rented and checking service is provided at all bath houses. Refreshments may be obtained.

Boats are available for rent in many State Parks, and on most of the state recreational lakes. Sailboating is popular on all the larger lakes. Motor boats and outboards are strictly prohibited on the artificial lakes.

CABINS, located in 7 State Parks, may be rented for a period of from one day to two weeks. Many cabins have running water and toilets, and most of them have fire places so that they may be used throughout the year. Reservations should be obtained in advance by writing the custodian of the park.

GROUP CAMPS, consisting of cabins, each accommodating eight, central mess hall, showers, and leaders' cabins, are available at Dolliver and Ahquabi State Parks. These can accommodate up to 50 campers. Smaller groups can be accommodated at Backbone and Palisades State Parks. Reservations for group camps and further information may be obtained from the Conservation Commission, Des Moines.

STATE PARK RULES

Over 2,400,000 people visited Iowa's State Parks and Preserves in 1936.

The following rules are necessary for the successful preservation of the areas:

1. Maximum speed is limited to 15 miles per hour.
2. Excessively loaded vehicles are not permitted in the park.
3. Park cars in designated place only.
4. Build fires in a designated place. Do not waste firewood.
5. Do not injure or disturb any structure or natural attraction, plants, animals, etc. Enjoy—not destroy.
6. Let others use tables when you are through eating.
7. Place refuse in garbage cans.
8. The use of firearms is prohibited.
9. Dogs and cats must not run at large.
10. See custodian about camping privileges.
11. Park to be vacated by 10:30 P. M. except by special arrangements made with custodian.
12. Report accidents to custodian.
