Davenport Municipal Airport's 66-year-old runway is getting a facelift in a matter of months, but the work involves shutting the facility down for 30 days.

The concrete for runway 3/21, which runs from southwest to northeast, is being removed and replaced in a $6.5 million project scheduled for completion by Sept. 26. The runway was built in 1948 and maintained over the years through panel patching.

The runway replacement and a proposed extension of the second runway are hoped to boost economic development around the airport with the nearby Eastern Iowa Industrial Center and soon-to-be-built railroad transload facility.

Workers from McCarthy Improvement of Davenport began
Davenport airport project ready for takeoff

It has 28,000 general aviation take-offs and landings per year.

breaking up and removing concrete three weeks ago. Once that is completed, poor soil will be removed and the site graded. Then concrete will be poured in the three-phase project.

The key work is replacing the concrete where the two runways intersect, prompting the airport's shutdown starting June 2. The work at the intersection is scheduled to be completed ahead of the Quad-City Air Show the weekend of Aug. 9-10.

The closure does not affect Iowa National Guard operations at the airport.

On a recent visit, 1,500 feet of runway was gone and grading had begun to provide better drainage. A retention pond also has been built on the south side of the airport to help with stormwater runoff.

"They are working at a phenomenal rate," airport manager Tom Vesalga said. "We are finding more work for them because they are getting it done and moving on."

As concrete is removed, trucks arrive about every two minutes. He expects it to be the same when concrete is being poured.

"It is going to be a near-constant stream of trucks," the airport manager said.

The second phase is the intersection work that required Vesalga to notify 75 aircraft owners they would need to relocate for the month or stay put.

"Many have scheduled maintenance for that time," he said.

The second phase, which involves removing and replacing the intersecting concrete, doesn't bother air show director Ken Hopper, who said he has worked closely with Vesalga on the timing.

"That is the reason we moved our show back to August," Hopper said. "The city has been very good to us."

Alderman Gene Meeker, at large, who was the city council's liaison to the Airport Commission before it was disbanded, said the flurry of activity is exciting and important.

"That airport is a gem, and people don't understand how important it is to our local community and economy," he said. "With all the development out there, it is going to be a positive for our marketing and promotion."

Copyright 2014 The Quad-City Times. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Tags: Davenport Municipal Airport, Tom Vesalga, Runway, Quad-city Air Show, Eastern Iowa Industrial Center, Transportation And Logistics, Ken Hopper, Gene Meeker

More Government And Politics Stories

Republicans in RICO ask for special prosecution unit

Romney, Ernst plan Davenport stop at noon Friday

Louisa County approves budget changes

New Illinois budget plan could cause pain
Trending Articles and Offers

Davenport airport project ready for takeoff

5/28/2014

Recommendations

Davenport school leaders get new assignments
(Quad-City Times)

Witness: DNA found in Rock Falls apartment tied to Sheley
(Quad-City Times)

Davenport man wakes up to flames in basement
(Quad-City Times)

The 10 Worst Hotels and Motels in America (The Fiscal Times)

The Freakin’ Peep Show: 12 Celebs Slay In Cut Out Dresses
(MommyNoire)

12 spring cleaning tips to save your sanity: One mom spills her secrets
(NJ.com)

Van Hecke jury to begin deliberations today (Quad-City Times)

Twitching Eye: What Does It Mean? (See for Yourself)

Ask the Times: Fire damaged Rock Island school in 1949 (Quad-City Times)

Moline's Nova Cinemas shuts doors : Business
(Quad-City Times)

This Sketch from Altuzarra from Target Is Everything
(A Bullseye View)

10 Most Overpaid College Football Coaches
(Answers.com)

Sponsored Links

70% Off First Class
@alphaflightguru.com
We Have Special Discounts to Get You 70% Off First Class Tickets

Cape Town South Africa

Panera is Hiring in Iowa