CHICAGO TO OMAHA

Regional Passenger Rail System Planning Study

What are we doing?

The Iowa Department of Transportation, in cooperation with the Federal Railroad Administration and Illinois Department of Transportation, is studying the feasibility of expanding existing passenger rail service and developing a new regional passenger rail service from Chicago, Ill., through Iowa to Omaha, Neb.

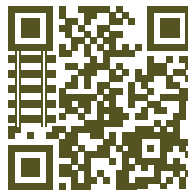

What would expanding regional passenger rail service provide?

- Decreased travel times.
- Increased frequency of service.
- Improved reliability, particularly in inclement weather versus other travel modes.
- Amenities to improve passenger ride quality and comfort.
- Decreased environmental impacts versus other travel modes.

How do I get involved?
