Introducing...an alternate way to recertify!

"Test-only day"

Do you have multiple certifications expiring this year, but a limited amount of time and travel budget? Are you an experienced technician who doesn't want to sit through a review session? If so, you may be interested in another recertification option.

There are "test-only" days scheduled when an eligible technician may come into a testing location and take as many different recertification exams as they wish, in any order they wish. Exams will begin at 9:00 am. No exams will be started after 3:00 pm. The exams will be proctored.

There will be no review given and no questions answered during the test only days!
